19th – 20th September 2020: Open Championship in Czech Chess (chess variant)

Right of participation: players without age and performance limitation

Game rules: This variant of chess is played with a standard chess set without a king and a queen. Furthermore, it differs from classical chess by the function of pawns, the absence of exchanges of pieces and the goal of the game. Pawns are placed on the field, where three or more pieces of the same colour attack directly. The player places only pawns of his colour. After placing on the board, pawns have no function, they just block the appropriate square. A move is defined as placing of a pawn or the movement of a piece. The game is won by the player who places 8 of his pawns earlier.
